DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election with traverse of Group I (claims 1-2) in the reply filed on November 25, 2008 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that Groups I, II and IV are related as products, process adapted for manufacturing such products and a process of using such products and considered to have unity of invention. Applicant further states claim 5 was mischaracterized and is directed to the use of the fungicidal composition. This is not found persuasive because Groups I-IV have been shown to not relate to a single general inventive concept as the special technical features of each group are not shared. Claim 5 as disclosed is "A propagation material" and is considered a product not a method of use.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claims 3-5 and 8 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected inventions, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on November 25, 2008.

Claim Objections

Claims 1and 2 are objected to because of the following informalities: the claims are missing punctuation such as commas between the formulas. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dutzmann et al. (US Patent No. 6,306,850).

Dutzmann et al. disclose an active compound combination with fungicidal activity higher than the sum of the activities of the individual active compounds, therefore presenting a synergistic effect (column 7, lines 55-60). Dutzmann et al. disclose said fungicidal combination comprises a compound of formula (I) (applicant's formula (II)), formula (III) (tebuconazole) (applicant's formula (III)), and formula (XIV) (applicant's formula (I)) (columns 1, 2 and 4). Dutzmann et al. disclose the active compound combinations are present in ratios of formula (III) at 0.1 to 20 parts by weight and formula (XIV) at 0.1 to 50 parts by weight per part by weight of active compound of formula (I) (column 11, line 63-64 and column 12, lines 22-23 and 49-50), which encompasses the limitation of instant claim 2.

The specific combination of features claimed is disclosed within the broad generic ranges taught by the reference but such "picking and choosing" within several variables does not necessarily give rise to anticipation. Corning Glass Works v. Sumitomo Elec., 868 F.2d 1251, 1262 (Fed. Circ. 1989). Where, as here, the reference does not provide any motivation to select the specific combination of the active compounds of formulas (I), (III) and (XIV), anticipation cannot be found.

That being said, however, it must be remembered that "[w]hen a patent simply arranges old elements with each performing the same function it had been known to perform and yields no more than one would expect from such an arrangement, the combination is obvious". KSR v. Teleflex, 127 S,Ct. 1727, 1740 (2007)(quoting Sakraida v. A.G. Pro, 425 U.S. 273, 282 (1976)). "[W]hen the question is whether a patent claiming the combination of elements of prior art is obvious", the relevant question is "whether the improvement is more than the predictable use of prior art elements according to their established functions." (Id.). Addressing the issue of obviousness, the Supreme Court noted that the analysis under 35 USC 103 "need not seek out precise teachings directed to the specific subject matter of the challenged claim, for a court can take account of the inferences and creative steps that a person of ordinary skill in the art would employ." KSR v. Teleflex, 127 S.Ct. 1727, 1741 (2007). The Court emphasized that "[a] person of ordinary skill is… a person of ordinary creativity, not an automaton." Id. at 1742.

Consistent with this reasoning, it would have obvious to have selected various combinations of various disclosed ingredients of active fungicidal compounds from within a prior art disclosure, to arrive at compositions "yielding no more than one would expect from such an arrangement". Therefore it would have been obvious to combine the active compounds of formulas (I), (III), and (XIV) of Dutzmann et al. motivated by the desire to form a synergistic combination effect.

Conclusion

No claim is allowed.
